

'The London 2012 Olympics will have a positive effect on ordinary people'

The map below shows the towns and villages the Olympic torch will visit as it passes through Warwickshire. The torch will make nine stops on 1st July 2012 and 2nd July 2012. The map also displays a modelled percentage (using Mosaic) of residents who believe that the 'London 2012 Olympics will have a positive effect on ordinary people'. The darker colours indicate a higher proportion of residents and a lighter colour indicate a lower percentage.

Most of the stops are in the south of the county, which coincides with the areas that people are most likely to believe the Olympics will have a positive effect.
